A "Wonderland of Rocks" Is America's Newest Park

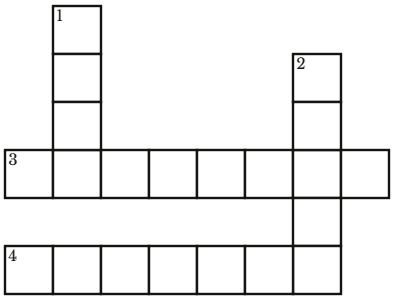

Chiricahua in Arizona is now the 64th national park

Say it: "cheery-cow-uh." This week, Chiricahua National Monument in Arizona became Chiricahua National Park, the 64th in the United States and the first new one in six years.

It is nicknamed the "Wonderland of Rocks." About 27 million years ago, volcanic ash hardened into rock, and wind and rain have carved it into towering stone spires and balanced boulders.

Javelinas, bats and 200 kinds of birds live there.
