This Week in History

On Oct. 19, 1781, British General Cornwallis surrendered his army at Yorktown, Virginia. The win helped the American colonies become a free country.

Fun Fact

A wombat's droppings are shaped like little cubes! The cubes don't roll away, so they work as signposts.

A Thousand Glowing Pumpkins Light Up Greenfield Village

Hallowe'en in Greenfield Village in Dearborn has one more weekend of spooky fun

Imagine walking through a village full of glowing faces. At Hallowe'en in Greenfield Village in Dearborn, more than 1,000 jack-o'-lanterns light the paths after dark. The Henry Ford is celebrating its 46th year of this fall tradition.

There is lots to see besides pumpkins. More than 50 costumed storybook characters wander the village, from stories like The Wizard of Oz, The Legend of Sleepy Hollow and Alice in Wonderland. Visitors also find harvest markets, music, ghostly performances and short plays based on how people celebrated Halloween long ago. You can even ride the spooky Hallowe'en Express for a small extra fee.

The last four nights are Thursday, Oct. 22, through Sunday, Oct. 25, from 6:00 to 9:30 p.m. The Henry Ford says tickets are in high demand, so families should buy them ahead of time at thehenryford.org. Dress warmly, because the paths are outdoors and the October nights can get chilly.

Why Small Dogs May Live Longer

Big dogs usually live shorter lives than small ones, and scientists may now know why. In a study in the journal Science, researchers looked at the DNA of 894 pet dogs of many breeds and sizes. They found that in bigger dogs, tiny chemical tags on the DNA wear away faster, which lets "jumping genes" move around where they should not. Small dogs do this more slowly, which may help them age more gently.
